Faculty Scholarly Grant Program Budget Guidelines and Restrictions

Budget

1. The budget should not exceed $6,000. Specific details include:
   - Hourly wages of research assistants must be listed and justified. If Undergraduate Research Opportunity Program (UROP) students are used in the project, their wages are paid by UROP. Students must apply separately to UROP.
   - The basis for figuring travel related to the project and per diem costs must be itemized and made clear, and may not exceed rates for per diem and travel set by the Travel Office (801-581-7142).
   - Careful justification should be given for the purchase of equipment (including computer hardware, software, books, or supplies) which may already exist in the University. Equipment purchased by the research grant becomes the property of the University of Utah. Where leasing equipment is a possible option, the purchase must be justified.

2. Once the grant is awarded, the awardee is responsible for managing the budget. The URC will not bear the burden of over-expenditures, which must be rectified by the faculty member and his/her academic unit.

3. PI's may not make any changes to the original objectives in their research plan without written permission of the URC. Once the grant is awarded, the PI may reallocate up to 25% of the total budget to one of the existing lines established in the original budget proposal. Should the investigator wish to use the funds for something other than what was previously established in the budget, a modified proposal must be presented to the URC for reconsideration of funding.

Restrictions

1. Grants may not be used for faculty salaries, graduate student stipends or fellowships, graduate student initiated projects or support to write their dissertations or theses, curriculum development and/or career development (e.g. taking courses, attending professional meetings, etc.), benefits on hourly wages except those required by law.

2. A request for funds to purchase a computer requires evidence that the project cannot be pursued without procuring that specific computer or workstation. The URC will fund the acquisition of computer hardware and software that are vital and necessary components of an approved project.

3. Faculty are expected to conduct their research at the University of Utah, with the exception of fieldwork connected to the scholarly or creative research project.

4. URC recipients are eligible to reapply once a final report has been submitted for their previous URC grant and the funding has been closed. The funding for a Faculty Release for Scholarly Pursuits and a Faculty Scholarly Grant Program may be used jointly.

Intellectual Property Rights

All questions of intellectual property should be addressed to the Technology Venture Commercialization Office at 801-581-7792. For the faculty's own protection, it is suggested that the grantee pursue any potential patent or copyright implications within the context of existing University of Utah regulations.
